The Master Blaster of Indian Cricket

Introduction

Sachin Ramesh Tendulkar, born on April 24, 1973, in Mumbai, India, is widely regarded as one of the greatest batsmen in the history of cricket. Over a career spanning 24 years, he became a symbol of consistency, dedication, and passion for the sport, earning the affectionate nickname "the Little Master" and later "the God of Cricket" among fans across the world.

Early Life

Sachin grew up in a middle-class family in Mumbai. He was introduced to cricket by his elder brother Ajit, who recognized his talent early on and encouraged him to train under the legendary coach Ramakant Achrekar. As a young boy, Sachin practiced for hours every day at Mumbai's Shivaji Park, often being motivated by his coach placing a coin on the stumps as an incentive for bowlers who could dismiss him.

Rise Through the Ranks

Tendulkar's exceptional talent became evident at school level, most famously through a record unbeaten partnership of 664 runs with Vinod Kambli in a school match. He made his first-class debut for Mumbai in 1988, scoring a century, and went on to make his international debut for India against Pakistan in Karachi in November 1989, at the age of just 16.
